

AG IN THE CLASSROOM

AG in the Classroom is a cooperative program between the Oklahoma Department of Education, Oklahoma Department of Agriculture, Oklahoma State University, Division of Agriculture (4-H Department), and Oklahoma farm organizations.

The program is designed for K-4 graders to learn how agriculture is the greatest sole contributor to the affluence, health and well being of our society. This is not a vocational agricultural program. The main concept behind AG in the Classroom is that materials are meant to integrate with lessons in language arts, math, social studies, science, reading, and art.

By using the program the concept that will be instilled is that agriculture is not simply farming but it is the supermarket, the equipment factory, the trucking system, the overseas shipping industry, the scientists laboratories, the houses we live in, and much, much more.
